

The Wanamaker Store

Two Weeks from Paris

JUST two weeks ago today, this group of twenty-five exquisite Spring Wraps left Paris—the only collection in America representing the new Spring ideas of the foremost Paris designers, which cannot be seen, even in Paris, until February Fifteenth.

Our expert, who was right on the spot, picked out the choicest models shown by FRANCIS—The world's greatest originator of style in Women's outer garments.

IGNACE—The wizard in the production of coats of hand-made lace.

ARTUS—PAILLARD—Who produce more beautiful coats than any other concern in Paris.

The Coats were hurried to the steamer, hurried across the ocean, hurried through the custom house—and now American women see the best models of the Paris masters of Dress at WANAMAKER'S. Special display on Second floor.

The Final Clean-up of Men's Winter Suits & Overcoats

This is the day when the thrifty man has the opportunity of the year to buy the new Winter suit and overcoat that will give him gratifying service for a couple of months longer this year; and he will have practically a new outfit to start off next Fall. And it will only cost him about half or a little more than half what he would need to pay then, without having had the service from the garments this Spring.

All are regular Wanamaker clothing, which means the best ready-made clothing that is produced. Of course, the lots are small and sizes broken. The schedule below will tell you exactly what sizes are here:

Twenty-seven fine black Oxford, and Cambridge Gray Overcoats, with broad shoulders and full back, cut long and all silk-lined. Were $32 to $45; now at $22.50 each. In these sizes:

1200 Men's Negligee Shirts At 65c Each

If we said $1 you'd count them worth it. In fact, many good stores sell shirts of this quality for $1.

They're made of madras, in a big variety of designs—Jacquard figures on medium and dark grounds, also neat stripes on light grounds. Some of the patterns may be seen in shirts that other stores sell for $1.50. Detachable cuffs. Sizes 14 to 17. All the shirts are cut over perfect-fitting models.

This is a rare chance for men who lay in their Spring and Summer shirt supply at this time. Of course, early choosing is always best. 65c. Basement, New South Building.

The Practical Dresses That Women Want Now

The elegance from Paris and the elaborate suits made in America cannot hide for a moment the large and splendid stocks of practical Coats and Suits that have been provided. Come to see the displays, of course, but remember that we are taking care of your every-day wants as well. You will find a very remarkable variety of new Spring Suits at prices between $15 and $38.

The coats are in the stylish Eton and hip-length effects, and the skirts in various circular styles. There are many varieties of trappings, as well as models in the various popular colorings. One very pleasing model is shown at $20, made of handsome homespun, with hip-length fitted jacket; collar, cuffs and coat sleeves prettily braided.

Another homespun suit at $23.50 has a fitted Eton jacket, trimmed with taffeta silk and finished with a small vest of linen. The elbow sleeves are trimmed in harmony with the jacket.

Very pretty suits of plaid worsteds are shown at $30. They have Eton jackets plaited over the shoulder, and trimmed with braid. Inlaid collar of silk, braided edge with plaited silk; elbow sleeves, circular skirt, box-plaited panel front and back, trimmed around the bottom with rows of braid. Second floor, Broadway.

MIRABEAU L. TOWNS INDICTED

With His Partner for Champerty—Denies Buying Sewer Claims

Mirabeau L. Towns, the post-lawyer, and his associate, Edward J. McCrossin, were indicted by the Kings county Grand Jury yesterday for champerty in connection with the sewer damage claims against the city. District Attorney Clarke notified the two lawyers to be in the County Court yesterday morning and they were there when the clerk received the indictments. The two lawyers were called to the bar, and then Clerk Foley said:

"You are jointly indicted of the crime of promising and giving a valuable consideration to a person as an inducement to placing and for being placed in your hands, as attorneys and counselors at law, a demand for the purpose of bringing an action thereon. To this indictment, how do you plead?"

"Not guilty," said the lawyers.

"The standing in the community of the two men," said District Attorney Clarke, "assures me that they will not run away from trial and I am willing that they shall be released upon parole pending their trial."

The indictment states that on or about September 1 last, in the Borough of Brooklyn, the defendants Towns and McCrossin promised to give a certain valuable consideration, to wit: "The sum of $2 to one Jennings S. Pesce, not in pursuance of any agreement between them, but as an inducement for him and in consideration of his having placed in their hands a certain demand and claim for damages against the city of New York, purporting to have been sustained by one Annunziata Marotta, late of 118 Sackett street, for the sum of $1,155, said damages arising out of the overflowing of a sewer on June 12, 1905, through the inadequacy thereof."

Later in the day Towns and McCrossin gave out this statement:

FOR MUNICIPAL SUBWAYS ONLY.

Committee of Rapid Transit Conference Against Use of Private Capital.

The building and control of an independent municipal subway system was discussed yesterday afternoon by the executive committee of the New York rapid transit conference. The conference is made up of delegates from civic organizations of all the boroughs of the city.

Calvin Tomkins, chairman of the committee, said yesterday that the chief aim of the organization was to bring about effective municipal control of the passenger transportation in New York. To further this end the executive committee decided on several propositions which will be submitted to the conference at the next meeting. They include the passage of the Elbergh rapid transit bill and the recommendation that the city authorities shall not permit the use of private capital in building new rapid transit lines.

Mr. Tomkins said that all new rapid transit lines should be built with particular reference to the river tunnels now in process of construction or for which plans have been made. The following routes were proposed to be recommended to the Mayor, the Rapid Transit Commission and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment:

A four tracked East Side line extending from Tremont street, through Webster, Melrose and Third avenues, thence by tunnel under the Harlem River and through either Third or First avenue in Manhattan, deflecting so as to pass near existing and future bridge entrances, splitting into two lines in lower Manhattan on account of the narrow streets and looping about the Battery, returning thence north through Greenwich street, West Broadway, Greenwich avenue and Seventh avenue to Fifty-ninth street and Central Park, making suitable connections with the Pennsylvania Railroad station on the way and connecting with the East Side line through Fifty-ninth street.

In closing his report the committee recommended the extension of the Lexington avenue subway through that avenue into The Bronx and expresses the opinion that "the merger should be permitted to complete this route at its own expense on terms similar to those granted the McAdoo tunnel."

By an order entered yesterday the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court disbarred Jurden L. Seeley, a lawyer who had some divorce practice. Seeley was convicted on his own confession in June last of grand larceny in the second degree and sentenced to serve one month in the penitentiary.

FOR SELLING MARKED SILVER.

Brooklyn Junkman Held—Says He Bought It From Barren Island.

Phikus Kaufmann, a junk dealer of 435 Rockaway avenue, Brooklyn, was a prisoner in the Essex Market police court yesterday, charged with receiving stolen property. His arrest resulted from the arrest on Wednesday of Isaac Giffner, a pushcart pedler of 10 Ridge street, who was selling silverware that bore the marks of several hotels. Giffner told the court that he got the stuff from Kaufmann and was discharged.

Kaufmann said he bought the silver from H. H. Ford, who has charge of the garbage plant at Barren Island. Ford was in court yesterday and denied this. He said his company was under bonds to return all marked silver found in the garbage. Kaufmann, he said, had been warned not to buy marked articles and was already under $1,000 bail to answer for a similar offence.

Daniel J. Coleman, an assistant steward of the New York Athletic Club, identified the silverware offered in evidence as belonging to the club. Magistrate Pool held
